

World Renew Disaster Response Services (DRS) can offer hope to disaster survivors because of your prayers, involvement, and financial support. As believers, we reach out to those in need because Christ gave Himself for our salvation: He asks us to follow His example by offering hope to others.

Last year, World Renew DRS volunteers responded to tornadoes, floods, hurricanes, and wind storms across North America by repairing houses, assessing needs, providing construction estimates, and much more. But World Renew DRS goes deeper than rebuilding homes:

We offer training in disaster recovery, network with local and national organizations, build community capacity to respond to disasters, guide local recovery groups, prepare churches and families for disaster, and seek to renew God's world by offering hope.

In Ocean County, New Jersey, and High River, Alberta, World Renew DRS is responding to long-term needs after Super-Storm Sandy in 2012 and flooding in 2013. In coordination with area churches and partners, DRS is supporting local recovery efforts across North America with volunteer work teams and managers, construction supervisors, case managers, and building materials and equipment.

With your help, we can do more! In the Florida panhandle, World Renew is helping survivors of 2014 flooding who are still struggling to re-establish their homes and lives. They are surviving on few resources and little hope.

Will you help disaster survivors in Pensacola and beyond who are facing the terrible void of loss after a disaster? This ministry depends on your support. Please give generously on World Renew DRS Sunday 2015, offering hope to those in need.
