From the Directors

Dear Friends:

Through your support, involvement, and prayers, World Renew is changing the story of people who live with poverty and experience hunger and injustice. World Renew aligns its work with God's presence daily, "looking to Jesus, the author and finisher of our faith" (Heb.12:2) as the great Story Changer of our own lives and the world.

Many people's stories begin with hardship, but by His grace, people's hard work, and support like yours, people improved their lives for the long term as a result of World Renew's collaboration with 67 Christian partners in 2016. Nearly 298,400 people in 21 developing countries participated in these programs in their local community, improving their health, agriculture, literacy, income, and leadership capacity.

World Renew assisted nearly 498,000 people who experienced disasters in 27 countries. In Nepal and Ecuador, World Renew provided immediate earthquake relief and long-term rebuilding. In drought and extreme hunger in Malawi, Mozambique, Zambia, Ethiopia, and Indonesia, World Renew distributed food. In conflicts in South Sudan and the Middle East, World Renew brought hope.

Every day, World Renew is a witness to God's powerful work among people who live in adversity, rewriting their stories with the hope and courage that only He can give.

- In total, World Renew served people in 39 countries in 2016, responding to disasters and providing long-term community programs that helped 796,279 individuals.
- This ministry was supported by 2,885 volunteers who donated 250,392 hours of their time and talent to World Renew — roughly equivalent to 120 full-time employees for one year.
- Through World Renew, 296 North American congregations engaged in social justice and advocacy around issues such as creation care, immigration, and refugee policies.
- World Renew's Disaster Response Services volunteers contacted 19,577 North American households to assess their disaster-related needs, and repaired 363 damaged homes.
- World Renew's refugee program helped 217 people who originated from countries such as Syria, Iraq, Pakistan, Afghanistan, and Iran begin a new life in Canada last year.

The stories of many men, women, and children around the world have been shaped by poverty, disaster, and injustice. But thousands experienced miraculous transformation in their hearts and lives because of your involvement in this mission of justice and mercy in 2016. Thank you for doing your part to bring in God's coming kingdom through World Renew. We praise God, the Alpha and Omega, the first and last, the beginning and end of our stories.

Serving the great Story Changer with you,

Ida Kaastra-Mutoigo

International Disaster Response Emergencies

When disasters strike, people who are living in poverty are the most vulnerable. World Renew responds to disasters in North America and around the world. As people's stories change after a shock or disaster, they build greater resilience over time to better respond to loss in the future.

Tangible Help in Crisis

For millions of people around the world, 2016 was characterized by disaster and conflict. World Renew intervened in these tragedies in 29 countries, wrestling restoration from turmoil. Here is a glimpse at the ways World Renew contributed to changing stories in international disasters last year.

Ethiopia: El Niño brought drought and hardship to agricultural areas of Ethiopia. World Renew, with the Canadian Foodgrains Bank, launched a large response that provided monthly food rations to people in the Dugda area. Subsequent seasonal rains have come as expected, and with the provision of seeds and fertilizer, grateful farmers are returning to their normal way of life.

Nepal: When a massive earthquake struck Nepal in 2015, Yurba Tamang and his family lost their home and were living in small tent. World Renew provided the family with food, blankets, and supplies to build a temporary shelter and has plans to help Tamang and others build permanent homes.

Philippines: Three years after Typhoon Haiyan hit the Philippines, the most affected communities were focused on long-term economic recovery. World Renew provided tools and training to fisher folk, farmers, and women. Suzeth, a widow with two children, was struggling to survive. With World Renew's help, she opened a small convenience store and now makes enough money to feed her children and send them to school.

South Sudan: While South Sudanese families were returning to their ancestral lands in 2016 after years of civil war, many lacked the farming skills they needed. To assist them, World Renew began agriculture training in the Yei area. It includes a weekly radio broadcast featuring Joyce Jaguru, a South Sudanese woman who voices instruction in agriculture techniques to local farmers.

Syria: Before the Syrian conflict started, Marwa, Bassam, and their four children had a comfortable life. Then Bassam lost an arm and a leg in a missile attack. Marwa was committed to providing for her family, but she was soon at the brink of despair. The food assistance she received from World Renew got them through difficult times.

Zambia: For Sinabu Wambinji, two consecutive years of drought and crop failure made even drinking water scarce in Mwandi, Zambia. World Renew worked in Sinabu's community last year to construct wells, provide school lunches, and distribute monthly food packets.

Disaster Response Services in North America Marked by Loss, Touched by Love

When Tomas' home was severely damaged by a flood in Texas in 2015, he was overwhelmed and depressed. The following April, World Renew Disaster Response Services (DRS) volunteers began to repair his home and build an intentional friendship with him.

Unfortunately, the conditions at Tomas' house forced the volunteers to stop working until the issues were resolved. When Tomas learned that they couldn't return right away, he wasn't discouraged — he was energized and worked diligently so the volunteers could get back to work quickly.

With DRS volunteers once again addressing the damage in his home, Tomas' mood brightened more each day. He said it meant a lot to him. "There are people who care and come to work when they say they will," he said.

"Our team got a lot of work done, but more than that, we developed the kind of personal connections based in Christ that remind us why we do this work," said Albert Veldstra, a World Renew DRS volunteer who worked on Tomas' Texas home.

"We serve others because God first loved us."

World Renew DRS volunteers across the US and Canada lean on "Jesus, the author and finisher of our faith" (Heb. 12:2) to guide to them in service to people who, like Tomas, not only need repairs to their damaged home, but also care and support for a damaged spirit.

World Renew DRS is reaching out in God's power to change the story of people who are deeply marked by natural disaster. In providing clean-up services, connecting survivors

Transitional Programs Food Security

When a disaster threatens a community where World Renew is already working, the community leaders and World Renew's partners implement disaster projects that take place alongside our long-term programming. These projects address immediate needs and then transition back to long-term development when families are again able to survive and move toward a better future.

Last year in Chikwawa, Malawi, there was extensive flooding followed by a severe drought. The extreme conditions aggravated the existing food challenges in the area. First, flash floods washed away people's fields, homes, and food reserves, and then there was not enough rain to successfully grow more crops.

Dickson Makwiza and his family experienced the flooding and the drought. They planted their crops but lost the harvest.

Dickson is partly blind and his wife, Margaret, does piecework to support their family, but often they are without enough food. World Renew brought food assistance to Chikwawa to help the Makwizas and other vulnerable families. It is starting to change their story from survival to sufficiency.

Conservation Agriculture

Recurring drought and poor soil puts farmers in eastern Africa at risk of chronic hunger and malnutrition. World Renew steps in to help those who depend on the food they grow to feed their families, providing aid to help meet people's immediate needs until they can recover.

Since 2015 World Renew has been working with the Canadian Foodgrains Bank in conservation agriculture in Ethiopia, Kenya, and Tanzania. Farmers learn new ways to grow crops in severe conditions so that they can survive the current crisis and better withstand future disasters. Training from World Renew's local partners includes techniques like moisture retention, limited tillage, and crop diversity.

"Communities are excited to learn about conservation techniques," said Jacqueline Koster, World Renew's regional program manager in east and southern Africa. "The training often reduces the farmers need to travel to find fertile soil to grow their crops."

In Bukabwa, Tanzania, farmers are learning about intercropping. The second crop adds nutrients like nitrogen to the soil while also providing shade and holding moisture. The farmers in Bukabwa say that their results speak for themselves: increased harvests and crops that are more resistant to drought are helping their families have enough food to eat year round.

Changing
the story

Community Development Enough Food

More than 795 million people are undernourished every day. Men, women, and children live without enough food to lead a healthy, active lifestyle. Wherever we live in the world, we need enough food, the right food, not just to survive, but to thrive.

HUNGER

A Story of Generations

World Renew is working with Christian Medical Action (AMC) and Foods Resource Bank in Nicaragua to empower poor communities. Recently, one village used maps to depict their past, present, and preferred future. An older man named Don Digno described the past when the land was deforested, and there was little work, food, or hope. A young man then described the improvements the community made by planting coffee, reforestation, water projects, and a new school building and road.

The map of the future was presented by two teenagers whose parents looked on proudly. Their hopes included electrical poles, more roads and trees, returning wildlife, a bridge, and a high school. These teens are benefiting from their parent's hard work, and they are making improvements that benefit everyone. Their community can experience a better future because of the changes they make today.

SUSTAINABLE AGRICULTURE

Better Harvests

In Mali, farmers are facing challenges that threaten their food supply. World Renew, with the Canadian government, is educating 2,400 farmers to improve productivity by overcoming deforestation, soil erosion, and low crop yields. Al Jibaga is a 52-year-old farmer who is in charge of 20 children in his family's five households. He manages the 45 acres of farmland the family owns. For many years, he grew less than a ton of crops per year to feed his family.

Five years ago, Al Jibaga began to learn about composting, agroforestry, and intercropping. "Over the last three years, I have harvested a thousand pounds of millet per acre and three tons of cowpeas," Al Jibaga said. "The results are beyond my expectations. Our lives have changed for the better."

CREATION CARE

The Floating Gardens of Borkhapon

The land in Borkhapon, Bangladesh, is flooded in monsoon season, making it impossible to grow crops. World Renew, with the Canadian government and local partner, PARI, is helping farmers grow food on flooded land with floating gardens that are planted on rafts woven from locally available plants.

Mohashin Alam grows okra, squash, and greens on top of the vine rafts. "This project has made a great difference in my life," Alam said. "Now I have enough food to feed my family during the monsoon season, and we can help our relatives when they are in need."

Good Health

Wherever we live in the world, we all rely on our bodies to get us through the day. We know that true health is not just the absence of disease but treating our bodies as God's temples, so that they are best able to do His work.

MATERNAL AND CHILD HEALTH

Food to Grow On

Almost 60 percent of the children living in rural Guatemala are stunted by malnutrition and poor health. Last year, World Renew's staff in Guatemala were joined by colleagues from Bangladesh who recently completed a health program that saved thousands of lives. Together, they visited communities where World Renew's partner, ADIP, is addressing the health of pregnant women and infants.

Local health volunteers teach families to use clean water, good hygiene, and simple medicines. ADIP will also work with farmers so that families have enough good food to eat year round. Additional agriculture and literacy programs will help mothers and children live healthy, fulfilling lives.

WATER AND SANITATION

Strong Faith

After months of planning, a well-drilling rig arrived in Ochomogo, Nicaragua. Volunteers from Owen Sound, Ontario, worked with World Renew partner, San Lucas Society, to lay the foundation for two 2,500-gallon water storage tanks. A hydrogeological study and soil analysis determined the best location and size for the well. But the huge drill got stuck in the rock and wouldn't budge for a week.

Like Joshua marching around the walls of Jericho, the people of Ochomogo prayed and walked around the well site seven times. The next morning, the drill broke through the rock and hit water, pumping out 20 gallons per minute. In Ochomogo, the story is changing to include clean water and better health.

HIV AND AIDS

Yvonne is Changing her Story

Yvonne Phiri is a 17-year-old from Mbozi, Malawi, who dropped out of school in the ninth grade to make donuts to sell at the market. At first, some of her male customers gave her extra money, and later on they demanded sex.

World Renew is working with partner, Word Alive, to reach girls in six villages to generate income without transactional sex. Yvonne joined a group in Mbozi. "My life has changed completely," she said. "I am HIV free, and I am going to do what I can to prevent it." She is back in school, and a local church is helping with her tuition. "When I complete my education," Yvonne said, "I want to become a nurse."

Find out more about World Renew's HIV and AIDS work at worldrenew.net/kabermado.

Fruitful Work

Making a living is not easy, especially when starting from scratch. Without access to financial services, finding the capital to start a business and funds to bridge the gaps sometimes forces people to make difficult decisions. World Renew is helping men and women create the fruitful work they need to thrive.

LITERACY

My First Book

At 18 years old, Lor Por has only a second grade education. He was chosen, with 17 other villagers from the Rshi people group in Laos, for an artist-in-training program with World Renew. The artists learned to make picture books for pre-school students. Lor Por was hired when the training was complete. Next year, the project will expand to reach more Laotian students and communities.

Lor Por created his first book and teaches it to students in six Rshi villages. He has steady employment and is writing a new chapter in his own story. His father said, "My son produced a book even though he is not educated. I am proud of him."

VILLAGE SAVINGS AND LOAN FUNDS

The Big impact of Small Loans

In 2012, World Renew began to raise $1 million for income projects around the world. The goal was set on top of a $1.5 million gift for the Village Savings and Loan (VSL) Fund. World Renew supporters met this goal! Now 80,000 people in 3,200 communities are participating in village-based saving and lending associations. Festo Madira from Bukokwa, Tanzania, is one of these participants.

Madira attended a VSL workshop through the AICT Diocese of Geita, a World Renew partner. He received a loan to buy some land and tomato seedlings. He sold his first harvest and paid off his loan. Now, he has a new house and runs a farm supply shop. Over the next 15 years, World Renew's VSL Fund will help more people like Festo Madira support their families.

VOCATIONAL TRAINING

Hama Sanke, Fire Fighter

Two years ago, 35 teenagers took a first aid class offered by a World Renew partner in Dakar, Senegal. The four-year program in Senegal and Nigeria addressed the health and economic needs of out-of-school youth. The first aid class was offered in partnership with the Red Cross as a vocational training opportunity. Hama Sanke was one of the participants.

"I completed three months of Red Cross training," Sanke said. "When the fire department received my application and first aid certificate, they hired me. Now I am a fire fighter in Guédiawaye, Dakar. Thank you to all those who are responsible for this program," Sanke said. "I have learned a lot, and I found a profession. My life has changed for the better."

LIVELIHOOD AND INCOME DEVELOPMENT

Mali Farmers innovate

Last year, 50 farmers in Mali began using ox-drawn tillers as part of an innovative agriculture program with World Renew. The tiller helps the farmers raise more food from the land available. "My field is in a rocky area," farmer Henry Kamo said, "but thanks to the Kassine tiller, I harvested twice as much as before! The Kassine tiller is one of the solutions to food insecurity in my community."

The tiller project is part of a larger, rural livelihoods program that is helping farmers in Mali and other countries adapt to unpredictable rainfall, flooding, and environmental degradation. The improvements are providing more food consistently for Henry Kamo, his neighbors, and his community.

Changing
the Story

Peace-Building and Justice

World Renew was founded with a heart for peace and justice. We begin by listening to the communities where we work. The voice of our partners and partner communities is crucial to shaping World Renew's response to conflict and injustice. Not only do we seek to respond, but we seek to amplify the voices of our partners and communities.

HUMAN TRAFFICKING AND ABUSE PREVENTION

A Path to Justice

"I am a pre-law student who interned with World Renew at the Christian Center for Human Rights (CCDH) in Nicaragua. My supervisor, Sara, is a 51-year-old lawyer who volunteers with CCDH, a network of citizens who work for justice in their communities. She provides free legal advice out of her home. While I was in Nicaragua, the parents of a 15-year-old girl travelled three hours by bus to ask her to help them recover their daughter. She had been kidnapped by a member of their church.

"Sara and I crisscrossed the region by bus, pressing the girl's case with the head of police. We pushed the officers in the family's village. We borrowed a pickup truck for the police to use to rescue the victim. Finally, the daughter was reunited with her family. By equipping and supporting Sara where she was, World Renew and CCDH helped her provide this family with a path to justice."

GENDER JUSTICE AND WOMEN'S EMPOWERMENT

Saving Women's Lives

In rural communities in Guatemala, indigenous women are not valued and are often mistreated. Hundreds are killed each year, and many more experience other violence. World Renew's partner, ADIP, and the Office for the Defense of Indigenous Women trained 150 people in five communities in human rights and gender justice last year.

The training, offered through local churches, included topics like women's legal and human rights, discrimination and abuse, healthy marriage and family relationships, and conflict resolution. While helping to build up local partners and churches, World Renew is confronting violence and saving lives.

TRAUMA HEALING

Forgiveness as a Path to Peace

World Renew is addressing injustice and conflict in western Africa in alliance with the American Bible Society. Training and listening sessions are helping victims recover from violence and loss. “In Nigeria, Naomi’s family was attacked by Boko Haram,” a local staff person said. “She lost her husband and three sons in the fighting. She now lives with her only daughter.”

“The trauma healing program is helping me,” Naomi said. “I am learning to forgive the people who killed my husband and sons. I am working to be free from anger and pain so I can experience God’s peace.” World Renew’s trauma healing programs are helping Naomi and others address anger and bitterness to find wholeness and fulfillment again.

GOOD GOVERNANCE

Chief Mao, Servant Leader

Mao Chuob has been the village chief of Prey Anse, Cambodia, for 15 years. However, the people didn’t trust him. When he attended a workshop on governance and multi-stakeholder partnerships offered by World Renew’s partner, CFT, he learned about clear communication, trust-building, power dynamics, decision-making, and accountability.

Mao’s leadership skills were transformed as he applied what he learned.

In response, people began to invest in improving their community. Now Mao is confident about his community’s ability to make collaborative improvements. He is committed to excellent leadership and has become a role model for other chiefs. His community is proud to have him as an effective, trustworthy leader who works for a better life for all of its members.

Individuals, churches, schools, groups, or families: there are many meaningful and exciting ways to partner in World Renew's work addressing the effects of poverty, injustice, and disaster. REFUGEE RESETTLEMENT

Welcoming Strangers

The refugee sponsorship committee at the Christian Reformed Church (CRC) in Exeter, Ontario, had the privilege of welcoming the Kanjo family to Canada last year. The Kanjos are a family of two grandparents, two parents, and two young boys.

"Moumena, the mother, taught herself to speak English by watching movies while waiting to come to Canada," a volunteer said. "The father, Mohammad, greets us every day with, 'Welcome! Welcome! Coffee? Coffee?' Their sense of fun and adventure is a great joy. They have become good friends."

Exeter CRC is helping the Kanjo family make friends, get started at school, sign up for driver's licenses, and apply for jobs. "The Kanjos are learning to live free," the volunteer said. "There is great joy and gratitude in their hearts to have finally arrived in Canada."

COMMUNITIES FIRST ASSOCIATION

The Changing Story in North America

Communities First Association (CFA) holds biannual gatherings that draw a diverse group of people from across North America who have a passion for engaging others in God's redemptive work where they live using Asset-Based Community Development or ABCD.

CFA's Fall Gathering in 2015 featured the organization's first intake event for the Community Advancement Coaches (CAC) Fast-Track Process. As a result, four new community developers began their journey with CFA.

Then in 2016, CFA began this co-journey with a total of eight new community developers.

CFA is quickly becoming the place where community developers from across the U.S. receive nationally-recognized certification in ABCD. The program focuses on the holistic development of those called to work with local churches and educational leaders in North American communities, helping them uncover God's gifts and presence there.

GLOBAL VOLUNTEER PROGRAM

Changing the Story as a Volunteer

Ephesians 3:18 encourages us to discover the dimensions of the height, depth, width, and length of God's love. The new Seven Dimensions Study Guide from the Global Volunteer Program (GVP) is a helpful resource for volunteers to explore living more fully. The guide introduces World Renew's framework for identifying, planning, reporting, and evaluating transformation in developing communities.

GVP provides North Americans with opportunities to learn and grow together — to learn what it means to be part of God's work in the world and to grow in response to His Spirit's invitation to be truly changed. GVP volunteers say that they are deeply transformed by their engagement with World Renew.

"And I ask Him that with both feet planted firmly on love, you'll be able to take in with all followers of Jesus the extravagant dimensions of Christ's love. Experience its breadth! Test its length! Plumb the depths! Rise to the heights! Live full lives, full in the fullness of God." (Eph. 3:18, The Message)

FREE A FAMILY®

Changing the Story Together

Free a Family® is a powerful way to help people around the world change their story. Through World Renew's programs in agriculture, health, nutrition, and literacy, families recognize their resources and receive the training they need to build a better life.

More than 3,970 families had fresh opportunities to grow their skills, provide for the people they love, and experience hope in Christ last year because of Free A Family. In North America, 2,927 families prayed, acted, and gave financially to make these changes possible.

JOSEPH STEWARDS

A Legacy of Compassion

Joseph Stewards are ministry supporters who notify World Renew about leaving a financial gift to the organization in their will or estate. Based on the story of Joseph in Genesis 41, Joseph Stewards share their blessings with those who live with hunger and poverty, helping others change their story for generations to come.

Through careful planning, and with generous spirits, Joseph Stewards set an important example for others to follow, joining together to make a greater impact for Christ around the world. More than 700 Joseph Stewards have given notice that World Renew has been named in their estate. Are you another? If so, let us know: if not, please consider it. To find out how you can become a Joseph Steward, go to worldrenew.net/josephstewards. Or call us at 800-552-7972 in the U.S. or 800-730-3490 in Canada.
